Allied & Scientific Health Office (ASHO) – UniSA 2024 Research Capacity Building for Allied Health Clinicians

How to do quality improvement in Allied Health

AIM:

- To introduce the concept of quality in allied health
- To showcase different frameworks for quality improvement in allied health
- To provide tools and strategies for measuring quality in allied health

OBJECTIVE:

Quality – a commonly used term in health care and everyone wants quality health care. But what does “quality” actually mean and how do we define it, capture it and evaluate it? The workshop will outline both theoretical and practical aspects of commonly used quality improvement strategies, as well as showcase emerging initiatives that can be readily implemented in allied health settings.

CONTENT:

What does “quality” mean? What are the commonly used frameworks for quality improvement in allied health? What tools and strategies can be used for measuring quality in allied health as a vehicle to demonstrate value and impact? Do you view quality improvement as another “tick in the box” activity that you need to do once a year as part of your annual professional development activity? What are the limitations of quality improvement in allied health?

FORMAT:

Online via zoom, combination of didactic presentation, individual activity and reflection/feedback to the wider group. The session will be recorded and sent out to all those who have registered upon conclusion.
